passage that gives the book its title thirty years ago my older brother who was ten years old at the time was trying to get a report on birds written that he d had three months to write it was due the next day we were out at our family cabin in bolinas and he was at the kitchen table close to tears surrounded by binder paper and pencils and unopened books on birds immobilized by the hugeness of the task ahead then my father sat down beside him put his arm around my brother s shoulder and said bird by bird buddy just take it bird by bird this is a novel about the persistence of longing in which the twin lives of the title character blur and overlap bird puts her child on the bus for school and passes the day with her baby interwoven into the passage of the day are phone calls from a promiscuous unmarried friend and bird s recollection of the feral reckless love she knew as a young woman it s a day infused with fear and longing an exploration of the ways the past shapes and dislodges the present in the present moment bird dutifully cares for her husband infant older child but at the same time bird inhabits this rehabilitated domestic life she re lives an unshakeable passion mickey the lover she returns to with what feels like a migratory impulse mickey whose movements and current lovers she still tracks with mickey she slumped and wandered part time junkie tourist of the low life a life of tantalizing peril this can t last bird thought and it was true noy holland s writing is lyrical fired by a heightened eroticism in which every sight and auditory sensation is charged with arousal the writing in this book noy holland s first novel is fearless in its depiction of sexual appetite and obsessive love it sheds light on the terror of abandonment and the terrible knowledge that we are helpless to protect not only ourselves but the people we most love in the first days of spring birds undergo a spectacular metamorphosis after a long winter of migration and peaceful coexistence they suddenly begin to sing with all their might varying each series of notes as if it were an audiophonic novel they cannot bear the presence of other birds and begin to threaten and attack them if they cross a border which might be invisible to human eyes but seems perfectly tangible to birds is this display of bird aggression just a pretence a game that all birds play or do birds suddenly become territorial and if so why by attending carefully to the ways that birds construct their worlds and ornithologists have tried to understand them despret sheds fresh light on the activities of both and at the same time enables us to become more aware of the multiple worlds and modes of existence that characterize the planet we share in common with birds and other species
